Treasury Is Studying Drastic Tax Revision Program for Congress

WASHINGTON — The Treasury has a big tax surprise up its sleeve.

Despite all pooh-pooh talk by the Old Guarders, Young Henry Morgenthau and his advisers are harboring a secret program for drastic tax revision at this session.

Three of the most important features of the plan are:

1. The principle that only an arbitrarily fixed amount of wealth may be inherited. The "ceiling" that Morgenthau and his advisers have agreed on is a closely guarded secret. But they want the principle written into the law on the theory that once it is fixed the "ceiling" can be raised or lowered with greater ease.
  2. A tax on dividends.
  3. Increase of the capital stock tax.
- The program is the work of a group of young economists whom Morgenthau has had studying the tax question for many months.

They recommended that the Administration delay no longer in fundamental tax reform, that it begin by tackling the problem of great inheritances.

Their plan has been provisionally approved by the President, but will come before him in final form before it is decided whether to submit it to Congress.

Press Tutor

Secretary of Labor Perkins not only is the closest mouthed member of the Administration where news is concerned, but she also acts as a press tutor for the rest of the Cabinet.

One day she was leaving a White House conference together with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Relief Administrator Hopkins, and Interior Secretary Ickes—all three believers in cooperation with the press. White House scribes gathered round, they asked Morgenthau:

"Can you give us any idea of what was discussed?"

"Well," he began, "we talked over the question of."

But he got no farther. With complete finality, Miss Perkins broke in:

"There was really nothing at all under discussion. We were just having a friendly little chat. The Secretary (Morgenthau) has nothing he can give you just at this time."

"And Morgenthau and Ickes and Hopkins, somewhat flabbergasted, murmured in chorus:

"Yes...er...of course. Nothing at all. We were just having a pleasant little chat."

Note: They had spent an hour discussing Relief and PWA appropriations for the new budget.

Hari-Kari

President Roosevelt came near losing his Steel Labor Board en masse.

It happened this way:

For weeks there had been strenuous behind-the-scenes efforts to bring steel operators and union leaders into agreement.

The negotiations got nowhere. Labor leaders insisted on recognition of the principle of majority rule. Employers refused to yield on their demand for minority representation in plant councils.

Finally, the Steel Board proposed a three-point formula:

Factory elections to be suspended for six months.

Employers to deal with all union groups.

The Steel Board to be recognized by both sides as arbiter in complaint cases.

The plan was submitted informally. (Continued On Page Six)

BRUNO STOLID ON TRIAL EVE; GAINS WEIGHT

Hauptmann Appears Slightly More Nervous; Smoking Increases

SLEEPS FITFULLY

Low Blood Pressure Is Only Drawback

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 31.—"If Bruno Hauptmann breaks he is more than likely to break physically than mentally."

Dr. Floyd Ashley Thomas, one of the three physicians who has examined Hauptmann in the Hunterdon county jail here made this assertion in an interview today. He pointed out that Hauptmann's blood pressure is extremely low, around 70 where it should be around 125 for a man of 37 years of age.

"His mental condition is remarkable," said Dr. Thomas. "His physical condition, however, is handicapped by his low blood pressure."

SHOWS IRON-NERVE

But Hauptmann, on the eve of his trial for the murder of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby, shows no signs of "breaking." He seems as iron-nerved as ever and, outwardly, his physical condition appears to be all right. His appetite is good and, according to Harry L. McCrea, warden at the jail, he has gained three pounds in the past few weeks. Yet he sleeps rather fitfully. Dr. Thomas recalled that when he had two other physicians—Dr. George Henry and Dr. Barclay S. Fuhrmann—examined the celebrated prisoner on November 20 last Hauptmann showed a tendency toward dizziness which can be traced to his low blood pressure.

"When Hauptmann stands for any length of time he shows a tendency to fall toward his left," said Dr. Thomas.

Hauptmann's physique is well-formed, he has no apparent deformities, his posture is good, he has well-developed muscles, and has only a normal amount of fatty tissues. His lungs and heart are normal.

When Hauptmann was brought to the jail here on October 25 last he weighed 150 pounds stripped. Incidentally, he is 5 feet, 9 inches tall. He lost several pounds but lately he has started to gain and, according to Warden McCrea he now again weighs 150 pounds.

RELIEF FUND IS $10,777

Four Hundred and Thirty Families Listed On Pickaway-Co Relief.

Pickaway-co's relief budget for January totals $10,777, according to figures announced by the state commission. The fund is divided: $7,750 for direct relief, $2,527 for works relief and $500 for emergency schools.

The commission lists 430 families in the county on relief.

All 88 counties will receive $10,749,404 to spend in January for relief. Many reports that federal grants to states in the future would be in the form of "secured loans" instead of outright gifts brought the following statement from Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson, chairman of the commission: "I can only point out that under the state's constitution, Ohio cannot contract more than $750,000 indebtedness. It would require a statewide election to change these provisions."

According to the state figures, there are only five counties in Ohio with fewer families on relief than Pickaway. Morgan-co is low with 265 families, while Noble has 275, Union, 475; Wyandot, 476, and Morrow, 425.

TOWN'S HYDRANT BILL NOT LEGAL

WASHINGTON C. H. Dec. 31.—The court of appeals today had sustained the ruling of Judge H. M. Rankin that the bill for $10,200, owed by the city to the Ohio Water Service Co. is not a legal bill therefore does not have to be paid.

Judge Rankin ruled the fire hydrant contract under which the city operated was not legal.

Whether the ruling would have any effect on Circleville's fire hydrant rental bill is not certain. Circleville now owes the water company, the same which serves Washington C. H., more than $11,000.

The fire department board includes Chief Talmer Wise and Fireman Robert Wolfe, James Wickenseimer, Councilmen Ben H. Gordon and C. O. Leist, and R. L. Brehmer. Gordon is chairman and Wolfe secretary of the group.

At present there are only two officers who would come under the regulations set down, Thomas McManamy and J. S. Baer.

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—Miss Elsa Sittell, New York secretary jailed at Waldmohr for allegedly inferring that Reich leader Adolf Hitler was of Jewish ancestry, will be released "shortly" and placed aboard an American steamer bound for New York, it was learned today.

It was not clear immediately whether the American girl would be compelled to spend New Year's day in prison, as she did Christmas day. She was arrested at Schoneburg December 23 as she crossed the frontier into Germany bound to spend the holidays with her parents in the border village of Gangloff.

The prosecuting attorney at Waldmohr advised American Consul-General George A. Makinson at Frankfurt that Miss Sittell had admitted making insulting remarks to the customs officials inspecting her baggage, ridiculing Nazi uniforms, and casting remarks of doubt concerning Hitler's "Aryan" stock.

AID SPEEDED TO GREEK STEAMER

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Leaking badly in a rough sea with about 30 men aboard, the little Greek freighter Meropi was in distress today about 500 miles east of New York while the American export line freighter Exarch sped to the rescue.

RESCUE PARTY REACHES FOUR TRAPPED MEN

Army Fliers Report Seeing Figures About Plane On Mountain

WEATHER IS FRIGID

All Four In Plane Reported Unhurt

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 31.—The first rescue party was reported to have reached the Adirondack mountainside 75 miles northwest of here where the four marooned fliers and crippled American Airlines plane are located.

Army fliers in a scout plane reported seeing figures moving about the wrecked plane at 10 a. m. today.

The rescue work, halted during the night due to the abrupt departure of a plane which had been dropping flares over the spot to guide searchers, was resumed with renewed vigor after Pilot Charles Maris reported shortly before dawn that the castaways were walking around a wire they had built.

THREE PARTIES SEARCH

One party pushed toward the mountain from the hamlet of Gray, and was expected to reach the scene first. A second party came from Bull's Hill and a third contingent, composed of state troopers and national guardsmen, closed in from Stratford.

The party that left from Gray was reinforced by a group from Moorehouseville which vainly tramped through the snow for 20 miles last night.

To aid communication, the General Electric company sent a specially-equipped short-wave radio car from Schneckstadt to Gray. This set, recently used in contacting Australia, can receive as well as transmit.

ALL FOUR UNHURT

The men apparently have escaped injury. Army planes had dropped food and clothing to them from bomb-racks. Their greatest hardship was the frigid temperature of 15 below zero.

The four men are Ernest Dryer, pilot of the plane which was on a Boston-to-Cleveland run; Dale Dryer, his brother and co-pilot; Jack Brown, another pilot of the line, and R. D. Hambrook, federal bureau of education official. The spot where they were found, standing near the big plane, partly hidden by the snow-covered branches of trees, is thought to be about 15 miles north of Little Falls, in Herkimer-co.

But after becoming acclimated, he proposes to roll up his sleeves and wade in with legislation designed to help his native Ohio.

NOOSE LOOMS FOR NELSON'S GUN PARTNER

John Paul Chase Due In Chicago Today After Capture In California

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—The hangman's noose looms here today as end of the trail of crime and violence and blood of a minor member of the depleted Dillinger gang. John Paul Chase, suspected of being the companion of George "Baby Face" Nelson, in the gun battle near Barrington, Ill., which resulted in the death of two department of justice operatives, was to arrive here today to face federal murder charges.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green summoned the federal grand jury today, to vote indictments naming Chase for the murder of Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis in the battle at Barrington, Nov. 27.

Green said he would present the evidence to the grand jury today and would probably represent the government in the trial.

ARRESTED IN WEST

"We have enough evidence," Green said, "to make certain this man will be subjected to the death penalty, which is almost mandatory following a verdict of guilty." Chase was arrested at Mount Shasta, Cal., last Thursday, and his apprehension unrevealed until late Saturday. He was to arrive here early today by train, under heavy guard.

Nelson died of wounds he received in the battle with Holley and Cowley. Nelson, his companion, and his wife, Mrs. Helen Gillis escaped following the gunfight. Nelson died of his wounds and his body was placed along the roadside near a cemetery, by his wife. She was later arrested by federal agents, and sentenced to prison for harboring her husband and other fugitives. She was not indicted on a murder charge because, it is believed, of the information she gave federal operatives which resulted in the capture of Chase.

Prosecutor Green said today Mrs. Gillis will not be a witness before the grand jury, but intimated she may be the government's chief witness at the trial.

There were a number of witnesses to the gun fight between Nelson and his companions and the federal agents, and from among these, Green said, he had witnesses who would be able to identify Chase to the satisfaction of the jury.

At the inquests into the death of the two agents witnesses were unable to name Nelson's companion.

CORN AND HOG FORM SIMPLE

Old Contract Signer Whose Farm Unit is Unchanged Has Little Bother.

Simplified forms and simplified procedure for the 1935 corn-hog program, developed out of experience with corn-hog adjustment details during the past year, are expected to permit more rapid handling of contracts and payments during the coming year.

John W. Wuichet, state agent in charge of corn-hog adjustment in Ohio, at a meeting in Columbus last week, said the cooperating producer will sign the contract only once, in 1935, instead of twice as was the case in 1934 when the first signature, before production data had been checked and adjusted, really constituted only an application for a contract. Wuichet brought to a group of state extension workers December 27 and 28 some of the details of the program learned at a regional meeting with corn-hog officials at Indianapolis.

USE APPLICATION

An official application form giving the producer's name, address, and farming location will be provided under the 1935 program. On this form the producer will report any changes from his 1934 status, and will state whether he signed a contract in 1934, and whether he wishes to include a hog base which was not established under the 1934 contract.

This procedure will enable community committeemen to speed handling of contracts by classifying applicants according to work that will be required in determining 1935 allotments. General procedure, for producers whose status or location has not changed since 1934, will consist in transferring adjusted figures from the old contract to the new contract and submitting it to the producer for signature.

In the case of 1934 signers who have moved to new farms or otherwise altered their farming units, or where changes have occurred which necessitate a redetermination of the corn or hog base, the applicant will also fill out a work sheet, giving full details of these changes. On the basis of this complete information committeemen may then compute the 1935 corn and hog allotments and adjustment payments.

MEETINGS PLANNED

Complete information on the details of the 1935 program will be available to all corn and hog producers at community meetings to be held in January and February. Each farmer applying for a contract will receive copies of all forms to be used and a booklet which contains rulings relative to the program.

6 KILLED BY 'RED SHIRTS'

Mexico's President Demands Punishment For Gang Attacking Worshippers.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 31.—Aroused over a brutal attack upon Catholics in the suburb of Coyoacan in which six were killed as radical youths mercilessly shot down worshippers, President Lazaro Cardenas today promised that "the persons responsible will be severely punished."

The president issued a statement deploring the killings, which occurred just outside one of the oldest churches in the western hemisphere immediately after the Catholic filed out from mass.

The radical youths, members of the "Red Shirt" anti-Catholic organization of Thomas Carrido Canabal, governor of Tabasco province and minister of agriculture in the federal government, invaded the town, admittedly trouble-bent. They harranged the Catholics until the latter charged at them.

Then, without warning, the Red Shirts fired upon the churchgoers. Five, including one woman, fell dead, and 30 were wounded.

Despite the attack, the Catholics stormed after the retreating youths, capturing and beating one of them to death. The others were cornered in the municipal building until police arrived and arrested 45 Red Shirts.

Miss Courtright Wears Gown Worn by Mother for Wedding

The wedding gown of her mother was worn by Miss Margery Ann Courtright, daughter of Dr. D. V. Courtright, E. Mound-st, when she became the bride of Mr. John DeWeese Blosser, of Chillicothe, at a formal wedding Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Presbyterian church. The church was filled with friends of the couple.

Rev. Emil S. Toensmeier read the single ring ceremony before an altar banked with arbutus and laurel and lighted with white candles and tapers.

Following the service a program of musical music was played by Miss Abbe Mills, Clarke, church organist, and friend of the bride. Her numbers were "Still Is The Night" by Bohn, "The Prize Song from Diemeistersinger" by Wagner and "The Prelude to Lohengrin." She also accompanied numbers sung by Miss Eleanor Snyder with Joseph Adkins Jr., playing the obligato on the violin.

Miss Snyder sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was used for the entrance of the wedding party and during the ceremony Miss Clarke and Mr. Adkins played "At Darning."

Miss Courtright, a beautiful bride, was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of ivory mousseline de sole over ivory tulle was trimmed in lace medallions and seed pearls. The veil of tulle fell from a cap made of the same lace as that trimming the dress. She carried lilies of the valley and her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Virginia Straw, of Cleveland, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Ann Bennett, Miss Kathryn May, Miss Mary May Haswell, this city; Miss Jane Brown of Chillicothe; Miss Alice Crutchfield and Miss Pinkney Gott of Sewickley, Pa.

Icicle satin gowns fashioned floor length were worn by the bridesmaids and maid of honor. Low backs and pleated trains on the skirts were style notes of the dresses, with which they wore long white gloves. Miss Straw carried tallies roses and the bridesmaids' flowers were briar-cliff roses.

Mr. Warren Kampf, of Chillicothe, a close friend of the bridegroom, was best man and the ushers included Mr. Vattier Courtright and Mr. Dudley Courtright, brothers of the bride. Mr. Robert Manley of Chicago, Mr. Howard Hyde of Cleveland, and Mr. John Tomlinson and Mr. William Brown of Chillicothe.

Mrs. Blosser, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a blue velvet gown with which she wore shoulder corsage.

A reception followed the wedding at the home of the bride's father at which Miss Anna Schleyer played several piano selections.

Seated at the bride's table with the bride and bridegroom were members of the wedding party and Mr. Curtland Straw of Cleveland.

NEW DAY OF THE NEW YEAR

EXCEPT for the calendar, New Year's day will be much like any other day. Tomorrow, the clocks will be ticking away at the same time. The same sun and the same moon will be in the heavens. The law of gravity will still operate. And still with all the day's likeness to other days, it will be an entirely new period of time, invested with all the importance that society has chosen to give New Year's day.

And that is well. It is not good to run any project, not even life itself, without a few checking posts along the way. Business finds it not only desirable but imperative to take an account of stock at intervals, and to many lines of business New Year's day is that interval.

Men and women who have been rushing or dawdling through the year will find it helpful, if they are wise, to take an inventory of themselves now and then and New Year's day serves them usefully in that respect. Of course the hackneyed resolution habit has come to be a good deal of a joke, but even so, jokes can become serious and baneful.

Perhaps New Year's day has no finer purpose to serve, finer even than marking the shift between the Julian years, than to give mankind an opportunity to check on itself, to see if its course is true or otherwise, to consult with itself on matters personal and intimate, to break old habits that are bad, to form new ones that are good, to squeeze bitterness out of life and inject something better in its place.

No person is too good or so nearly perfect that a little introspection once in a while is superfluous. It is quite all right to balance up the books in the office and the bank. That is in harmony with today's spirit, but an audit of the soul is much more vital. And New Year's Day is heartily recommended for that purpose.

We hope that 1934 has been kind to you and yours, and that with the beginning of the new year we will all strive for continued peace and prosperity, forgetting much of whatever unpleasantness there might have been and remembering only that which gives us comfort and peace.

We extend to all our readers, patrons and friends our best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year.

A GREAT INDUSTRY

IN many respects the invention of the automobile may have been an event with greater effect on our lives during the first third of the twentieth century than anything else. One wonders what would happen to employment if another industry so great should spring up, and to some degree the answer may be found in figures recently compiled by the census bureau for the year 1933.

From these figures, the National Highway Users conference finds that in the state of New York one in ten of the persons employed in wholesale, retail and service occupations owes his job to automobile, petroleum and other trades connected with highway transportation. Of 261,725 wholesale, retail and service establishments, 25,955, or approximately one-tenth, were wholly dependent on motor transport. Of the total pay roll of $831,241,000 for all the trades, $88,059,000 or 9.4 per cent, went to those engaged in the automotive, petroleum and allied trades.

Were the automobile to be abolished over night every tenth person in the trades named in the state of New York would be out of a job in the morning, and more than one-eleventh of the pay roll would have dried up. That is the condition which would follow the extinction of occupations practically unknown at the turn of the century, and it does not take into account the great numbers engaged in the manufacture of motor vehicles.

As we enter the second third of the century, one wonders if it will too provide some new activity as far-reaching in scope and effect.

Possibly it's their faulty English, but the Japanese call it an "arms race."

In science and medicine Americans have won four out of five Nobel prizes. They have also done quite well in the Irish sweepstakes.

The world is fairly free from war if we classify the Gran Chaco trouble as a nightmare.

A native American doesn't make a good head-waiter. He can't have a dignified duck fit when a celebrity comes in.

A Californian has discovered chemical processes through which beans may be made larger. As we understand it, though, the demand is for better, not bigger, beans.

Little Sister

by MARGARET WIDDEMER

The policeman addressed Jerry.

READ THIS FIRST:

After reading a letter from her reckless young sister, Bet, announcing her proposed elopement with a carpenter, Leila Madison rushes to New York from her suburban home where she lives with her Aunt Minnie. The sisters are orphans and members of an old Westchester family. Arriving outside her sister's apartment, Leila, who is actually engaged to Orion Johnston, a wealthy aristocratic neighbor, finds Jerry Redmond. He, too, is a roommate at Yale of the brother of Bet's fiancé, is striving to halt the elopement. Jerry, says the prospective bridegroom is Addison Huntington, a romantic radical, masquerading as Stark Freeman. Leila and Jerry find Bet and her roommate, Edna, waiting for Addison. He arrives a moment later. Jerry tells Addison the police want to question him about an acquaintance of his named Jarocki so they disguise Addison in girl's clothes.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 8

THE THREE girls, cowed by the necessity of the moment and the dominant male, all assented. There was a moment's silence in the not dusky studio. Leila sat down in the chair by Jane, so that she could stop her if she did anything betraying Edna painted calmly on Jerry stood and stared out the window as if he had nothing else to do. "Here, smoke," he said suddenly to Addison, "and act as if you didn't care." Addison lit a cigaret duly and carefully relaxed. The policeman knocked and walked in. They looked around the room—at the girl painting, the other girl playing with her dog, the two other girls sitting smoking on the couch, and addressed Jerry. "You Stark Freeman?" "Name's Redmond, Reporter. Had a tip there might be something doing here and horned in. Here's my card." "Uh-h." The policeman, felled of his prey, gave a sad grunt. "What did you hear?" "A fellow on one of the tabs," said Jerry casually, "said there might be a story about Stark Freeman eloping with one of these girls, on top of being mixed up with somebody named Jarocki who was a Red or a forger or both. Can you give me a line on it, officer?" "Wouldn't the ladies?" said the policeman who was the spokesman with a slight grin. "They would not!" "They would not!" "He must be quite a boy with the girls," the policeman said, while Leila kept a stern eye on Bet, furious on the couch. "Know him by sight?" "Yes. That's why they sent me." "How long you been here?" "About a half hour. See here, officer, if you happen to get anything, have a heart. I'm a friend of Pete Flanagan."

At this magic name the policeman became very amiable. "Sure. And now let me see what I can do with the ladies. Which of you ladies was going to elope with this Freeman guy?" he asked without delicacy.

"I was," said Edna, rising to the occasion with her amazing calm. "He left his suitcase here this morning. I've been waiting for him two hours."

"Well," said the policeman cruelly, "you didn't pick a very good guy to run off with. This Jarocki's skipped and left your friend to hold the bag." To this Edna replied nothing. Leila began to understand why Bet had insisted on living with her. Bet always could pick associates who were responsible.

"Oh, well, I understood Freeman was something of an idiot," said Jerry.

"And you call yourself his friend!" Bet cried incantiously, while Leila kicked her ankle.

"A reporter is everybody's friend," said Jerry placidly, at which the policeman gave a snort of mirth and said, returning to business, "Well, I guess he ain't here yet. Heading here all right, though, from the signs. You may catch a story yet, buddy. I guess I better be going. He might be waiting in one of these little restaurants round here. They're notified at the trains and ferries. Buck, you've seen him, you wait here till I come back."

Jerry went with him to the door. The other policeman, who seemed a shy soul, said that he thought it would be safer to wait outside the door, where he could watch the stairs as well as the studio. He told them not to shut the door.

Bet cast a trapped look around. "We can't escape, but we can plot," said Jerry to the stiff suited female figure on the couch.

"Addy, for cat's sake, go on smoking. You look like a stuffed image."

But took that moment to ask indignantly, "Why on earth do you keep calling him Addy?"

"Well for one reason, it might be, the policeman is more likely to think he's a lady friend. For the other, that's what he was christened. Addison Martin Huntington is his genuine name, Bet. I hope it's no shock to you."

It was, even in that tense time of waiting.

"He always said his name was Stark Freeman," said Bet tremulously.

"And a very good thing, too. Now he can go out into the world under his real name, which is unspotted as the snow."

"But he kept it from me!"

"Well, how you could think an allegorical name like that was real. I don't know," Jerry said.

"I whose it," said Addison with his usual dignity, in the low voice they were all using, "to vindicate a principle."

They thought this over a moment. "You sound like a movie star, but we get you," said Jerry. "Only remember in your new life, if we manage to land it for you, you go back to the old degraded monicker."

"NO!" said the female figure as sternly as he could manage under his breath.

Jerry paid no more attention to her. He picked up a magazine and began to read. Edna worked on. Leila watched the door nervously and wondered if this quarantine would never end, and if it did what it would be. Bet and Addison (supposing that to be his name) were deriving no comfort from nestling together on the couch, hand in hand. Jerry read the magazine through with close attention. Then he looked up and began to speak.

"My dears, we had better arrange our plan of action. When the second policeman returns, we shall have to try to be allowed to go. The question is therefore, whether are we drifting?"

But gave him a long bitter look. She said, "Either you or Leila has probably done this to us."

"For heaven's sake, Bet, don't take to melodrama," Leila said, past her patience.

"Only people who have no imagination deny the existence of what is called melodrama," said Bet with more or less truth. "I want to tell you that in my short life—" "You wrong me, little sister," said Jerry. "But I forgive you. As for big sister, I don't know how she feels. But she's going to have to face a certain amount of melodrama in a few minutes because we are then going to make the gesture of escape. It happens to be a cold hard fact that they want him. Why anybody should, of course—but that's a matter of taste."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

It could have happened in no other place but Hollywood. Herbert Marshall had never met Greta Garbo, although he had known for several weeks that he was to be her leading man in her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "The Painted Veil," which opens Tuesday at the Cliftona Theatre.

Marshall recently decided to acquire a household. He leased the Beverly Hills home of Director Edmund Goulding and moved in. He arrived at his home a few days before the picture started, to discover two strange women in possession of his tennis court. He asked his butler who the players were. The butler did not know.

AT THE GRAND

Charles Ruggles, that ace comedian, is appearing at the grand theatre Monday in "Friends of Mr. Sweeney". On Tuesday, Bette Davis, George Brent and Ann Dvorak are the attraction in "House Wife". The Hollywood players are also booked at the theatre.

Poems That Live

MEETING AT NIGHT

The gray sea and the long black land;
And the yellow half-moon large and low;
And the startled little waves that leap
In fiery ringlets from their sleep,
As I gain the cove with pushing prow,
And quench its speed in the slushy sand,

Then a mile of warm sea-scented beach;
Three fields to cross till a farm appears;
A tap at the pane, the quick sharp scratch
And blue spirit of a lighted match,
And a voice less loud, through its joys and fears,
Than the two hearts beating each to each!

Who Will Be the First Circleville Baby Born in 1935?

A group of Circleville's progressive merchants have joined together to do honor to the fortunate boy or girl who is the first to be born in 1935 in Circleville. Under the plan adopted these merchants will extend their congratulations in the substantial form of gifts to the First Baby of 1935 and its parents. # AMANDA BEATS TIGERS 30-27; RHYMER STARS

Poor Play in First Period Gives Villagers Unbeatable Advantage.

A small playing floor, a tight zone defense, but most of all a 13-1 lead at the end of the period, spelled defeat for the Tigers Saturday night at Amanda. The locals were expected to easily win but when the totals were summed up the result was Amanda, 30; Circleville, 27.

It seems funny, if not pathetic, that a team from a town the size of London should be so easily defeated one night, then one so small as Amanda should knock off a victory the next.

Although defeated, the Tigers learned that zone defenses work much better on small courts than those designed for man.

RHYMER IS STAR
A boy named Rhymmer, who lined up at a guard but played everywhere else, spelled defeat for the Tigers. He caged six field goals in the first half and gave the Red and Black defense the jitters.

The only point scored by the Tigers in the first period was Styers' free toss. The second period was a lot better, the locals pushing their total to 10 but Amanda counted seven more points to hold a 20-10 lead at the halfway mark.

The third session found the Red and Black out tallying the villagers 19 to 4 leaving the count 24-19 in favor of Amanda. The final period was nip and tuck, the score being tied at one time, 27-27, but a free throw and Rhymmer's seventh basket clinched the fray.

MEETS TOUGH FOES
The defeat leaves the Tiger record for the year at two victories and four defeats with Westerville and Ashville to be met this week-end.

Jack Fisher, of Lancaster, refereed. Amanda girls defeated the Lancaster Ramblers in a prelin, 22-16.

NEW SWIMMING RECORDS SET

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 31—Records were falling thick and fast today as a host of swimming stars entered the second day of Miami's swimming carnival.

Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett, of Los Angeles, set a new world's record of 1:52 for the 150-yard backstroke, clipping 1-2-5 seconds off her old record.

Eight national A. A. U. records also were broken. Ralph Planagan, local high school student, cracked three of them, turning in new marks of 6:13 2-5 for 500 meters, 3:21 4-5 for 300 yards and 5:44 1-10 for 500 yards.

Other record breakers were Lenore Kight, Homestead, Pa.; Alice Bridges, Whitinsville, Mass.; Katherine Rawls, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the New York women's swimming association relay team, which clipped ten and one-fifth seconds off a record that had stood for 12 years when it negotiated the 400-yard relay in 4:23 3-5.

HITS AND PUTTS - - - By Jack Sords

About THIS and THAT By the Second Guesser

TIGERS IN LOWER BRACKET
Frank Colley, of the Columbus Dispatch, picks three contenders for the Central Buckeye league crown with the other three teams as outsiders—Westerville - Tiger foe on Friday, Grandview and Bexley are ranked at the top with Delaware, Marysville and Circleville in the lower bracket.

BAER AFTER TWO
Maxie Baer may not be the best heavyweight in history but he is the best right now until the best one comes along—He lost a lot of money by kayaking Kingfish Levin-sky in the second round at Chicago, because, had the bout been nearly even for four rounds, he would have had a title go with the fish peddler—He was to get $50,000 for that—it is doubtful if the gate would have drawn that much—Max still wants to take on any two contenders on the same night.

REMEMBER THURSDAY
For some reason or other this Ashville-New Holland game Thursday night has grasped the imagination of Pickaway-co sports fans and there are bound to be plenty of them on hand—The game is played in the N. H. gymnasium—Ashville by virtue of a last period rally put the cleaners on New Holland at Ashville—What might happen Thursday night is unknown; remember the county tournament last year?

PURDUE AND WESLEYAN
The Big Ten and Buckeye conference cage season opens shortly after the New Year with Purdue favored in the western conference and Ohio Wesleyan backed for the Ohio loop—Ohio state is figured to win about half its games.

5 BOUTS BOOKED
COLUMBUS, Dec. 31—An impressive wrestling card with the Midget Fischer-Jummy Heffner bout climaxing the evening is scheduled for New Year's night at Columbus auditorium.
Fischer is defending his world's light heavyweight crown.
Four other bouts are booked.

Working out in Arizona briefly before coming to California, Alabama was in perfect condition. Coach "Tiny" Thornhill of Stanford said today, "We are ready for the best the Alabamians can give us."

With the exception of Bobby Grayson, Stanford's hard-cracking fullback, who had been injured, the West coast team is at peak. Alustiza, punter, is at his best. "Bones" Hamilton, who was largely responsible for Stanford winning Pacific coast honors, is in the best condition of the year. The boys are all set to repulse the slashing Crimson wave from Dixie.

All week long the southern team has worked out under the adverse weather conditions, in gymnasiums and outside practice places. Today they had tapered off with the lightest of workouts. Stanford, which clipped ten and one-fifth seconds off a record that had stood for 12 years when it negotiated the 400-yard relay in 4:23 3-5.

BAER'S CROWN IS DANGLING?

Garden Matchmaker Lists Number of Fighters to Fall From Thrones.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—Max Baer and most of the other fistie champions will be toppled from their thrones before the end of 1935.

If they are not, then James J. Johnston, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, will have proved himself a chump as a prophet. For the omniscient James J. put himself on the spot today with the following bold forecasts:

1. Max Baer will be beaten by Steve Hamas, Art Lasky, Max Schmeling or Primo Camera.
2. Bob Olin will have his face and light heavyweight crown lifted by John Henry Lewis.
3. Ted Yarusz will have to vacate his middleweight throne in favor of Paul Pirrone, Jack McEvoy, Lou Brouillard or Young Corbett.

4. Jimmy McLarnin will hold on to his welterweight diadem only because he won't risk it against anybody except a lightweight, meaning Barney Ross.

5. Barney Ross will drop his lightweight honors the first time he defends them against Lou Ambers, Cleo Locatelli or Frankie Klick.

6. Ray Miller and Baby Arizmendi will meet for undisputed possession of the featherweight sceptre—now shared by both—and Miller will win.

At Brown seems to have been read out of his bantamweight bauble in this country and either Escobar, Salica, Quintana or Young Tommy of California will move into his place.

8. The flyweight title isn't worth a thin dime to anybody—including its owner, Midget Wolgast, but such as it is, he continues to keep it.

SPYING ON SPORTS

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Writer

Minnesota was awarded a trophy emblematic of the national football championship last day . . . but Alabama, playing in the Rose Bowl, gets all the money . . . Howard Jones, coach of Southern California (which suffered a disastrous year) believes a team should have five downs instead of four to advance the ball 10 yards . . . Among those not concurring are Coaches Bernie Bierman, Minnesota (wonderful year); Frank Thomas, Alabama (perfect year); Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh (splendid year); and Tiny Thornhill, Stanford (dandy year) . . . Maybe Howard means that Southern California should have five downs.

Howard J. Savage of the Carnegie Foundation reveals $103,000 was spent investigating recruiting and subsidizing of college athletes . . . Based on the Washington and Jefferson disclosure that it costs $800 a year to keep a star football player in school, 123 players could be given a year's benefit of higher education for the number of halfbacks at Notre Dame.

So much for $100,000 in football . . . in other sports that much money is regarded as pretty fair sort of shucks . . . It is the prize sum offered for the Santa Anita handicap Feb. 23 at the new California track . . . Max Baer figures his services for a fight during the summer of 1935 are worth about five times that much, but he will be very lucky in this year of collapsible heavyweights to get $200,000 for risking his title.

FLORENCE BOUGHT BY MILWAUKEE 9

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 31—Paul Florence, veteran catcher of the Rochester Red Wings, has been purchased by the Brewers for the 1935 season. Florence is a splendid receiver and a strong hitter. He bats from both sides of the plate.

SON BEATS FATHER
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—Ken Olson is taking office as County Attorney with double satisfaction. Candidates at the recent election in Daguerre-co, Utah, were Charles Olson, Republican, and his son, Ken, Democrat. The son won the office by a two to one vote.

About 125,000 farmers have borrowed from local production credit associations of the FCA. Loans passed the 100,000,000 dollar mark this December. About half of this has been extended since June.

ally to representatives of the warring groups.

The operators signified their approval. The Steel Board received what it considered similar authoritative assurance from the unionites.

Elated, the Board informed the President of its success.

To give the matter an imposing setting he summoned labor leaders and employers to a White House conference.

The confab began most auspiciously. The operators said that while the compromise was not all they wanted, they would accept.

President Green of the A. F. of L. declared that the workers insisted on elections, but did not oppose the Board's proposal.

But when Roosevelt called upon 77-year old Mike Tighe, President of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers, he blew the conference sky high.

He not only insisted on immediate plant elections and unequivocal acceptance of majority rule, but wound up by announcing that he was without power to approve any agreement.

Members of the Steel Board were terribly embarrassed. They had assured the President that the stage was all set for agreement.

After they left the White House they talked of offering the President their collective resignations. But cooler counsel prevailed. And it was decided to make another stab for an agreement.

Congress Rookie
George H. Mahon, Democratic rookie from Texas, represents a district as large as the state of Maine. His campaign for Congressional nomination last Summer was made throughout twenty-five counties, each 900 square miles in area. Along with Martin Dies, Mahon is the youngest member of the Texas delegation. Both are 34, both have lived in the West Texas town of Colorado, which they pronounce with a long "a," as in parade.

Mahon developed a resonant baritone voice by imitating his father "Gee" and "Haw" on a tenant cotton farm and had good need of it in the campaign. His principal plank was an attack on distribution of obscene literature.

In Washington, Mahon marvels at the rain, would like to send some back home. The only other time he visited the Capital was in a model-T Ford eight years ago when he got into trouble for driving the wrong way on a one-way street. He told Texas crowds last Summer that if they would send him to Washington again, he would drive the right way and vote the right way.

A box of cigars was given to Hauptmann for Christmas by Lloyd Fisher, one of the defense lawyers. Hauptmann has smoked almost all of these cigars. He smokes about a pack of cigarettes a day.

"Hauptmann usually gets up about 8 a. m. and has his breakfast. This usually consists of oatmeal or cereal, four or five slices of rye bread and two cups of coffee.

After breakfast he returns to his cot and sleeps until 10 or 11 o'clock. He has dinner around 1, usually a stew or some meat 9-der. For supper he has three sandwiches of meat and cheese and always with rye bread. For dinner and supper he has a pot of tea. There are about two and one-half cups of tea in each pot. This means Hauptmann has about five cups of tea a day.

YEAR-END SUMMARY

The second year of progressive effort toward national recovery has come to a close. Important events and sweeping changes have taken place. While it is true that the goal toward which we are striving has not yet been reached, nevertheless, it has been brought definitely nearer.

For the most part, the year-end published reviews of trade activities reveal encouraging improvement. Business leaders express optimism over the New Year outlook.

We believe that there is a real and solid foundation for this growing confidence which is manifest everywhere. We expect business to be better in 1935 than it was in 1934 and we hope that you and your friends may benefit in due measure from the expected improvement.

Treasury Is Studying Drastic Tax Revision Program for Congress

WASHINGTON — The Treasury has a big tax surprise up its sleeve.

Despite all pooh-pooh talk by the Old Guard, Young Henry Morgenthau and his advisers are harboring a secret program for drastic tax revision at this session.

Three of the most important features of the plan are:

1. The principle that only an arbitrarily fixed amount of wealth may be inherited. The "ceiling" that Morgenthau and his advisers have agreed on is a closely guarded secret. But they want the principle written into the law on the theory that once it is fixed the "ceiling" can be raised or lowered with greater ease.

2. A tax on dividends.

3. Increase of the capital stock tax.

The program is the work of a group of young economists whom Morgenthau has had studying the tax question for many months.

They recommended that the Administration delay no longer in fundamental reform, that it begin by tackling the problem of great inheritances.

Their plan has been provisionally approved by the President, but will come before him in final form before it is decided whether to submit it to Congress.

Press Tutor

Secretary of Labor Perkins not only is the closest mouthed member of the Administration where news is concerned, but she also acts as a press tutor for the rest of the Cabinet.

One day she was leaving a White House conference together with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Relief Administrator Hopkins, and Interior Secretary Ickes—all three believers in cooperation with the press. White House scribes gathered round, they asked Morgenthau:

"Can you give us any idea of what was discussed?"

"Well," he began, "we talked over the question of—"

Bue he got no farther. With complete finality, Miss Perkins broke in:

"There was really nothing at all under discussion. We were just having a friendly little chat. The Secretary (Morgenthau) has nothing he can give you just at this time."

And Morgenthau and Ickes and Hopkins, somewhat flabbergasted, murmured in chorus:

"Yes, er, of course. Nothing at all. We were just having a pleasant little chat."

Note: They had spent an hour discussing Relief and FWA appropriations for the new budget.

Hari-Kari

President Roosevelt came near losing his Steel Labor Board on mass.

It happened this way:

For weeks there had been strenuous behind-the-scenes efforts to bring steel operators and union leaders into agreement.

The negotiations got nowhere.

Labor leaders insisted on recognition of the principle of majority rule. Employers refused to yield on their demand for minority representation in plant councils.

Finally, the Steel Board proposed a three-point formula:

Factory elections to be suspended for six months.

Employers to deal with all union groups.

The Steel Board to be recognized by both sides as an arbiter in complaint cases.

The plan was submitted informally.

BRUNO STOLID ON TRIAL EVE; GAINS WEIGHT

Hauptmann Appears Slightly More Nervous; Smoking Increases

SLEEPS FITFULLY

Low Blood Pressure Is Only Drawback

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 31.—"If Bruno Hauptmann breaks he is more than likely to break physically than mentally," Dr. Floyd Ashley Thomas, one of the three physicians who have examined Hauptmann in the Hunterdon county jail here made this assertion in an interview today.

He pointed out that Hauptmann's blood pressure is extremely low, around 70, where it should be around 125 for a man of 37 years of age.

"His mental control is remarkable," said Dr. Thomas. "His physical condition, however, is handicapped by his low blood pressure."

SHOWS IRON-NERVE

But Hauptmann, on the eve of his trial for the murder of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby, shows no signs of "breaking." He seems as iron-nerved as ever and, outwardly, his physical condition appears to be good and, according to Harry L. McCrea, warden at the jail, he has gained three pounds in the past few weeks. Yet he sleeps rather fitfully. Dr. Thomas recalled that when he had two other physicians—Dr. George Henry and Dr. Barclay S. Fuhrmann—examined the celebrated prisoner on November 20 last, Hauptmann showed a tendency toward dizziness which can be traced to his low blood pressure.

"When Hauptmann stands for any length of time he shows a tendency to fall forward his left," said Dr. Thomas.

Hauptmann's physique is well-formed, he has no apparent deformities, his posture is good, he has well-developed muscles, and has only a normal amount of fatty tissues. His lungs and heart are normal.

When Hauptmann was brought to the jail here on October 25 last he weighed 150 pounds, striped. Incidentally, he is 5 feet, 9 inches tall. He lost several pounds but lately he has started to gain and, according to Warden McCrea he now again weighs 150 pounds.

HAUPTMANN TRIAL WITNESS CHAIR

Eyes of the world will be focused on the witness chair shown above, located in the little Hunterdon county courthouse, Flemington, N. J., where Bruno Richard Hauptmann, indicted for alleged extortion in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping, goes on trial Jan. 2. Hauptmann is expected to be called to the stand along with other defense and state witnesses.

RELIEF FUND IS $10,777

Four Hundred and Thirty Families Listed On Pickaway-Co Relief.

Check Being Made to Determine Extent of 5-Minute Earthquake.

Pickaway-co's relief budget for January totals $10,777, according to figures announced by the state commission. The fund is divided: $7,750 for direct relief, $2,527 for works relief and $500 for emergency schools.

The commission lists 430 families in the county on relief.

All 88 counties will receive $10,749,404 to spend in January for relief. Many reports that federal grants to states in the future would be in the form of "secured loans" instead of outright gifts brought the following statement from Adj. Gen. Frank D. Henderson, chairman of the commission:

"I can only point out that under the state's constitution, Ohio cannot contract more than $750,000 indebtedness. It would require a statewide election to change these provisions."

According to the state figures, there are only five counties in Ohio with fewer families on relief than Pickaway. Morgan-co is low with 265 families, while Noble has 275, Union, 475; Wyandot, 476, and Morrow, 425.

TOWN'S HYDRANT BILL NOT LEGAL

WASHINGTON, C. H., Dec. 31.—The court of appeals today had sustained the ruling of Judge H. M. Rankin that the bill for $10,200 owed by the city to the Ohio Water Service Co. is not a legal bill therefore does not have to be paid.

Judge Rankin ruled the fire hydrant contract under which the city operated was not legal.

Whether the ruling would have any effect on Circleville's fire hydrant rental bill is not certain. Circleville now owes the water company, the same which serves Washington, C. H., more than $11,000.

Many Events Written in Hollywood 1934 History

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 31.—Year's end sees many important events written into Hollywood history during 1934.

The film colony has witnessed stars being born, marriages being made and broken, tragedies enacted and great changes wrought in vital phases of the motion picture industry.

Weighing the happenings of the crowded year, many Hollywoodites would choose the following to be the most important occurring here during the last twelve months:

Shirley Temple's overnight rise to stardom and to a pre-eminent position as a box-office draw.

The death of Marie Dressler, beloved star of stage and screen.

The birth of twins to Dixie Lee and Bing Crosby.

At present there are only two officers who would come under the regulations set down, Thomas McManamy and J. S. Baer.

NAZIS TO DEPORT NEW YORK GIRL

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—Miss Elsa Sittell, New York secretary, jailed at Waldmohr for allegedly informing that Reichsleiter Adolf Hitler was of Jewish ancestry, will be released "shortly" and placed aboard an American steamer bound for New York, it was learned today.

It was not clear immediately whether the American girl would be compelled to spend New Year's day in prison, as she did Christmas day. She was arrested at Schoneburg, December 23, as she crossed the frontier into Germany bound to spend the holidays with her parents in the border village of Gangoft.

The prosecuting attorney at Waldmohr advised American Consul-General George A. Makinson at Frankfurt that Miss Sittell had admitted making insulting remarks to the customs officials in Nazi uniforms, and casting remarks of doubt concerning Hitler's "Aryan" stock.

RIOTING IN SAAR

SAARBRUCKEN, Saar Territory, Dec. 31.—Several persons injured today as the result of a serious riot between Nazis and anti-Nazi new Christians which grew out of the plebiscite tension prevailing throughout the Saar valley.

The Saar international police force dispersed the rioters, making one arrest. The international army patrolling the Saar during the plebiscite period was not called out.

The riot developed during a meeting called at Bieskastel by the new Christians. The gathering was interrupted by a band of pro-Nazi youths.

Army Fliers Report Seeing Figures About Plane On Mountain

WEATHER IS FRIGID

All Four In Plane Reported Unhurt

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 31.—The first rescue party was reported to have reached the Adirondack mountainside 75 miles northwest of here where the four marooned fliers and crippled American Airlines plane are located.

Army fliers in a scout plane reported seeing figures moving about the wrecked plane at 10 a. m. today.

The rescue work, halted during the night due to the abrupt departure of a plane which had been dropping flares over the spot to guide searchers, was resumed with renewed vigor after Pilot Charles Harris reported shortly before dark that the castaways were waiting around a fire they had built.

THREE PARTIES SEARCH

One party pushed toward a mountain from the hamlet of Carleton Place and was expected to reach the scene first. A second party came from Bull's Hill and a third contingent, composed of state troopers and national guardsmen, came in from Stratford.

The party that left from Carleton Place was reported to have been delayed by a snowstorm which had covered the snow for miles last night.

To aid communication, the General Electric company sent a specially-equipped short-wave radio car from Schenectady to Gray, the set, recently used in contacting Australia, can receive as well as transmit.

ALL FOUR UNHURT

The men apparently have escaped injury. Army planes in dropped food and clothing to them from bomb-racks. Their greatest hardship was the frigid temperature of 15 below zero.

The four men are Ernest Dwyer, pilot of the plane which was shot down near Cleveland; Dan Dwyer, his brother and co-pilot; Jack Brown, another pilot of the plane, and R. D. Hambrook, federal bureau of education official. The spot where they were found, standing near the big plane, partly hidden by the snow-covered branches of trees, is thought to be about 15 miles north of Little Falls, in Herkimer-co.

"Hired hand" Donahey took with him no bulging briefcase of proposed legislation. For the first six months of his term, he said he intends to sit quietly on the sidelines. But after becoming acclimated, he proposes to roll up his sleeves and wade in with legislation designed to help his native Ohio.

MOSE LOOMS FOR NELSON'S GUN PARTNER

John Paul Chase Due In Chicago Today After Capture In California

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—The hangman's noose looms here today as the trail of crime and violence and blood of a minor member of the depleted Dillinger gang, John Paul Chase, suspected of being the companion of George "Baby Face" Nelson, in the gun battle near Barrington, Ill., which resulted in the death of two department of justice operatives, was to arrive here today to face federal murder charges.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green summoned the federal grand jury today to vote indictments naming Chase for the murder of Inspector Samuel P. Connelley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis in the battle at Barrington, Nov. 27.

Green said he would present the evidence to the grand jury today and would probably represent the government in the trial.

ARRESTED IN WEST

"We have enough evidence," Green said, "to make certain this man will be subjected to the death penalty, which is almost mandatory following a verdict of guilty." Chase was arrested at Mount Shasta, Cal., last Thursday, and his apprehension unrevealed until late Saturday. He was to arrive here early today by train, under heavy guard.

Nelson died of wounds he received in the battle with Holley and Cowley. Nelson, his companion, and his wife, Helen Gillis, escaped following the gunfight. Nelson died of his wounds and his body was placed along the roadside near a cemetery, by his wife. She was later arrested by federal agents, and sentenced to prison for harboring her husband and other fugitives. She was not indicted on a murder charge because, it is believed, of the information she gave federal operatives which resulted in the capture of Chase.

Prosecutor Green said today Mrs. Gillis will not be a witness before the grand jury, but intimated she may be the government's chief witness at the trial.

There were a number of witnesses to the gun fight between Nelson and his companions and the federal agents, and from among these, Green said, he had witnesses who would be able to identify Chase to the satisfaction of the jury.

At the inquest into the death of the two agents witnesses were unable to name Nelson's companion.

PLANS TWO CHARGES

It is planned to obtain two indictments, Green revealed today, one for the murder of each agent. He said he did not know on which charge Chase would be tried.

Chase was the prosecutor of Al Capone for income tax evasion and more recently headed the government forces in the trial of Samuel Insull for using the mails to defraud in connection with the collapse of the huge Insull utility empire. Insull and his co-defendants were acquitted.

Chase, thirty-two and unmarried, has no federal record, it was said. He became associated with Nelson in California where both operated as bootleggers.

1934 GREAT YEAR FOR 4-H CLUBBERS

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Achievements of rural boys and girls in 4-H clubs reached a new peak in 1934, announces G. L. Noble, managing director of the National Committee on Boys' and Girls' Club work.

Livestock, crops and handicrafts of the approximately 920,000 club members in 1934 will total in value about $20,240,000 according to careful estimates. Prizes won in local, state and national exhibitions and contests provided by hundreds of individuals, business firms and civic, educational and agricultural groups reach nearly $1,600,000. These include over 35,000 educational trips and scholarships valued at $10 to $400. All of these have been effective and wholesome incentives.

The new year, with assured higher price levels for farm products, a drought of record severity past, less exactions on 4-H leadership for crop control and relief, and a better complexion in the rural field, promises greater 4-H gains.

6 KILLED BY 'RED SHIRTS'

Mexico's President Demands Punishment For Gang Attacking Workshippers.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 31.—Aroused over a brutal attack upon Catholics in the suburb of Coyacan in which six were killed as radical youths mercilessly shot down workshippers, President Lazaro Cardenas today promised that "the persons responsible will be severely punished."

The president issued a statement deploring the killings, which occurred just outside one of the oldest churches in the western hemisphere immediately after the Catholic filed out from mass.

The radical youths, members of the "Red Shirt" anti-Catholic organization of Thomas Carrido Canabal, governor of Tabasco province and minister of agriculture in the federal government, invaded the town admittedly trouble-bent. They harranged the Catholics until the latter charged at them.

Then, without warning, the Red Shirts fired upon the churchgoers. Five, including one woman, fell dead, and 30 were wounded.

Despite the attack, the Catholics stormed after the retreating youths, capturing and beating one of them to death. The others were cornered in the municipal building until police arrived and arrested 45 Red Shirts.

CORN AND HOG FORM SIMPLE

Old Contract Signer Whose Farm Unit is Unchanged Has Little Bother.

Simplified forms and simplified procedure for the 1935 corn-hog program, developed out of experience with corn-hog adjustment details during the past year, are expected to permit more rapid handling of contracts and payments during the coming year.

John W. Wuchet, state agent in charge of corn-hog adjustment in Ohio, at a meeting in Columbus last week, said the cooperating producer will sign the contract only once, in 1935, instead of twice as was the case in 1934 when the first signature, before production data had been checked and adjusted, really constituted only an application for a contract.

Wuchet brought to a group of state extension workers December 27 and 28 some of the details of the program learned at a regional meeting with corn-hog officials at Indianapolis.

USE APPLICATION

An official application form giving the producer's name, address, and farming location will be provided under the 1935 program. On this form the producer will report any changes from his 1934 status, and will state whether he signed a contract in 1934, whether the land to be covered by contract is exactly the same as covered by contract in 1934, and whether he wishes to include a hog base which was not established under the 1934 contract.

This procedure will enable community committees to speed handling of contracts by classifying applicants according to work that will be required in determining 1935 allotments. General procedure, for producers whose status or location has not changed since 1934, will consist in transferring adjusted figures from the old contract to the new contract and submitting it to the producer for signature.

In the case of 1934 signers who have moved to new farms or otherwise altered their farming units, or where changes have occurred which necessitate a redetermination of the corn or hog base, the applicant will also fill out a work sheet, giving full details of these changes. On the basis of this complete information committee members may then compute the 1935 corn and hog allotments and adjustment payments.

MEETINGS PLANNED

Complete information on the details of the 1935 program will be available to all corn and hog producers at community meetings to be held in January and February. Each farmer applying for a contract will receive copies of all forms to be used and a booklet which contains rulings relative to the program.

NEW DAY OF THE NEW YEAR

EXCEPT for the calendar, New Year's day will be much like any other day. Tomorrow, the clocks will be ticking away at the same time. The same sun and the same moon will be in the heavens. The law of gravity will still operate. And still with all the day's likeness to other days, it will be an entirely new period of time, invested with all the importance that society has chosen to give New Year's day.

And that is well. It is not good to run any project, not even life itself, without a few checking posts along the way. Business finds it not only desirable but imperative to take an account of stock at intervals, and to many lines of business New Year's day is that interval.

Men and women who have been rushing or dawdling through the year will find it helpful, if they are wise, to take an inventory of themselves now and then and New Year's day serves them usefully in that respect. Of course the backsliding resolution habit has come to be a good deal of a joke, but even a joke can be an occasion for a new start.

Perhaps New Year's day has no other purpose to serve, finer even than marking the shift between the Julian years, than to give mankind an opportunity to check on itself, to see if its course is true or otherwise, to consult with itself on matters personal and intimate, to break old habits that are bad, to form new ones that are good, to squeeze bitterness out of life and inject something better in its place.

No person is too good or so nearly perfect that a little introspection once in a while is superfluous. It is quite all right to balance up the books in the office and the bank. That is in harmony with today's spirit, but an audit of the soul is much more vital. And New Year's Day is heartily recommended for that purpose.

We hope that 1934 has been kind to you and yours, and that with the beginning of the new year we will all strive for continued peace and prosperity, forgetting much of whatever unpleasantness there might have been and remembering only that which gives us comfort and peace.

We extend to all our readers, patrons and friends our best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year.

A GREAT INDUSTRY

IN many respects the invention of the automobile may have been an event with greater effect on our lives during the first third of the twentieth century than anything else. One wonders what would happen to employment if another industry so great should spring up, and to some degree the answer may be found in figures recently compiled by the census bureau for the year 1933.

From these figures, the National Highway Users conference finds that in the state of New York one in ten of the persons employed in wholesale, retail and service occupations owes his job to automobile, petroleum and other trades connected with highway transportation. Of 261,725 wholesale, retail and service establishments, 25,955, or approximately one-tenth, were wholly dependent on motor transport. Of the total payroll of $831,241,000 for all the trades, $88,059,000 or 9.4 per cent, went to those engaged in the automotive, petroleum and allied trades.

Were the automobile to be abolished over night every tenth person in the trades named in the state of New York would be out of a job in the morning, and more than one-eleventh of the payroll would have dried up. That is the condition which would follow the extinction of occupations practically unknown at the turn of the century, and it does not take into account the great numbers engaged in the manufacture of motor vehicles.

As we enter the second third of the century, one wonders if it will too provide some new activity as far-reaching in scope and effect.

Possibly it's their faulty English, but the Japanese call it an "arms race."

Little Sister
By MARGARET WIDEMER

The policeman addressed Jerry.

READ THIS FIRST:

After reading a letter from her reckless young sister, Bet, an announcement her proposed elopement with a carpenter, Leila Madison rushes to New York from her suburban home where she lives with her Aunt Minnie. The sisters are orphans and members of an old Westchester family. Arriving outside her sister's apartment, Leila, who virtually is engaged to Orton Johnston-Hedger, her aristocratic neighbor, runs into Jerry Redmond. He, too, as a roommate at Yale of the brother of Bet's fiancé, is striving to halt the elopement.

Jerry says the prospective bridegroom is Addison Huntington, a romantic, idealistic, insurance salesman. Leila, Jerry and her roommate, Edna, waiting for Jerry. He arrives a moment later. Jerry tells Addie the police want to question him about an acquaintance of his named Jarecki so they disguise Addie in girl's clothes.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 8
THE THREE girls, cowed by the necessity of the moment and the dominant male, all assented. There was a moment's silence in the not dusky studio. Leila sat down in the chair by Jane, so that she could stop if she did anything betraying Edna painted calmly on Jerry stood and stared out the window as if he had nothing else to do. "Here, smoke," he said suddenly to Addison, "and act as if you didn't care."

Addison lit a cigaret duly and carefully relaxed. The policeman knocked and walked in. They looked around the room—at the girl painting, the other girl playing with her dog, the two other girls sitting smoking on the couch, and addressed Jerry.

"You Stark Freeman?" "Yes, Stark Freeman. Reporter. Had a tin there might be something doing here and horned in. Here's my card."

"Uh-h." The policeman, foiled of his prey, gave a sad grunt. "What did you hear?"

"A fellow on one of the tabs," said Jerry casually. "Said there might be a story about Stark Freeman eloping with one of these girls, on top of being mixed up with somebody named Jarecki who was a Red or a forger or both. Can you give me a line on it, officer?"

"Wouldn't the ladies?" said the policeman who was the spokesman with a slight grin. "They would not!"

"He must be quite a boy with the reformers who was first to translate the Bible into English, died. 1860—South Carolina militia seized the arsenal at Charleston and hoisted the state flag. 1780—Massachusetts adopted constitution that abolished slavery. 1862—West Virginia admitted to Union as 35th state. 1917—New York Fuel Administration ordered six "lightless" nights a week for Broadway.

"I was," said Edna, rising to the occasion with her amazing calm. "He left his suitcase here this morning. I've been waiting for him two hours."

"Well," said the policeman cruelly, "you didn't pick a very good guy to run off with. This Jarecki's skipped and left your friend to hold the bag."

To this Edna replied nothing. Leila began to understand why Bet had insisted on living with her. Bet always could pick associates who were responsible.

"Oh, well, I understood Freeman was something of an idiot," said Jerry.

"And you call yourself his friend!" Det cried incautiously, while Leila kicked her ankle.

"A reporter is everybody's friend," said Jerry placidly, at which the policeman gave a snort of mirth and said, returning to business, "Well, I guess he ain't here yet. Heading here all right, though, from the signs. You may get a story yet, buddy, if you stick around. Well, I guess I better be going. He might be waiting in one of these little restaurants round here. They're notified at the trains and ferries. Buck, you've seen him, you wait here till I come back."

Jerry went with him to the door. The other policeman, who seemed a shy soul, said that he thought it would be safer to wait outside the door, where he could watch the stairs as well as the studio. He told them not to shut the door.

Det cast a trapped look around. "We can't creep in, but we can plot," said Jerry to the stiff sported female figure on the couch.

"Addie, for cat's sake go on smoking. You look like a stuffed image."

Det took that moment to ask indignantly, "Why on earth do you keep calling him Addie?"

"Well, for one reason, it might be the policeman is more likely to think he's a lady friend. For the other, that's what he was christened. Addison Martin Huntington is his given name."

Det said, "I hope it's no shock to you."

It was, even in that tense time of waiting.

"He always said his name was Stark Freeman," said Det tremulously.

"And a very good thing, too. Now he can go out into the world under his real name, which is unspotted as the snow."

"But he kept it from me!" "Well, how you could think an allegorical name like that was real. I don't know," Jerry said.

"I choose it," said Addison with his usual dignity, in the low voice they were all using, "to vindicate a principle."

They thought this over a moment. "You sound like a movie star, but we get you," said Jerry. "Only remember, in your new life, if we manage to land it for you, you go back to the old degraded monicker."

"NO!" said the female figure as sternly as he could manage under his breath.

Jerry said no more attention to her. He picked up a magazine and began to read. Edna worked on. Leila watched the door nervously and wondered if this "quarantine" would never end, and if it did what the end would be. Det and Addison (supposing that to be his name) were deriving comfort from nestling closer, together on the couch, hand in hand. Jerry read the magazine through with close attention. Then he looked up and began to speak.

"Golly dears, we had better arrange our plan of action. When the second policeman returns, we shall have to try to be allowed to go. The question is therefore, Whither are we drifting?"

Det gave him a long bitter look. She said, "Either you or Leila has probably done this to us."

"For heaven's sake, Det, don't take to melodrama," Leila said, past her patience.

"Only people who have no imagination deny the existence of what is called melodrama," said Det with more or less truth. "I want to tell you that my short life—"

"You wrong me, little sister," said Jerry. "But I forgive you. As for my sister, I don't know how she feels. But she's going to have to face a certain amount of melodrama in a few minutes because we are then going to make the gesture of escape. It happens to be a cold hard fact that they want him. Why anybody should, of course—but that's a matter of taste."

WHEN YOU MAKE YOUR NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS, Mrs. Housewife, Resolve To Use WALLACE'S BETTER-BAKED BREADS Every Day in 1935!

Here's a suggestion for a New Year's resolution and we would like every housewife in this section to try it! The next time you buy bread ask for "Wallace's"—serve it to your family: toasted for breakfast, at luncheons, dinners and suppers. Then if you don't agree with us that it is a better bread, richer in taste and a finer texture than most other breads you've been using, there's no harm done.

For a Happier and Healthier New Year Use Wallace's Breads

The management and employees of Wallace's Bakery join in sending you greetings at the dawn of a New Year. These local people who bring Wallace's Breads to you every day wish to take this means of thanking you for the patronage you have given during the past and trust they will merit your continued support in 1935 and years to follow.

Wallace's Breads are made in Circleville, and brought to you through the combined efforts of the following local persons:

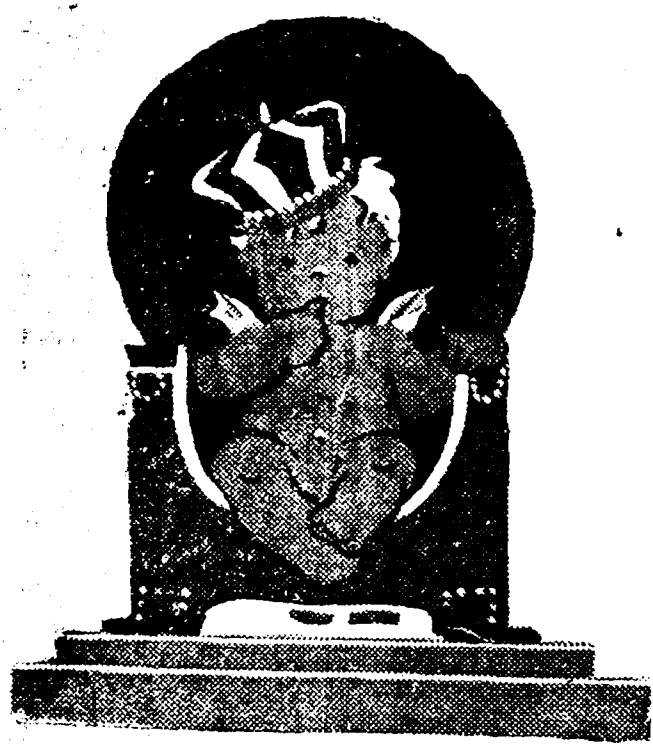

Ed. Wallace	John Styres
Edna Timmons	Pearl Harrison
Harriet Barnes	Albert Voll
Ralph Livingston	Paul Easter
Ralph Wallace	Herbert Stintson
Paul Wallace	Ralph Ward
Charles Howard	John Ward, Jr.
William Friece	Thurman Frazier
Marvin Good	Charles Glitt
Melvin Dresbach	Clydus Young.

And sold only by INDEPENDENT GROCERS in Circleville and Pickaway County.

Who Will Be the First Circleville Baby Born in 1935?

A group of Circleville's progressive merchants have joined together to do honor to the fortunate boy or girl who is the first to be born in 1935 in Circleville. Under the plan adopted these merchants will extend their congratulations in the substantial form of gifts to the First Baby of 1935 and its parents. The gifts will be given to the first boy or girl to be born after midnight December 31st, 1934, this baby to be declared 1935's First Baby.

To qualify a baby its birth should be reported immediately to The Herald by telephone or in person, giving the name and address of the parents, with the exact hour and minute of birth and the name of the attending physician. Parents of the First Born must reside in the corporation limits of Circleville.

As soon as possible the parents of the first born will call at this office and receive from the Baby of The Month Editor a certificate which will entitle them to the gifts and prizes the cooperating merchants are giving away.

An Encouraging YEAR-END SUMMARY

The second year of progressive effort toward national recovery has come to a close. Important events and sweeping changes have taken place. While it is true that the goal toward which we are striving has not yet been reached, nevertheless, it has been brought definitely nearer.

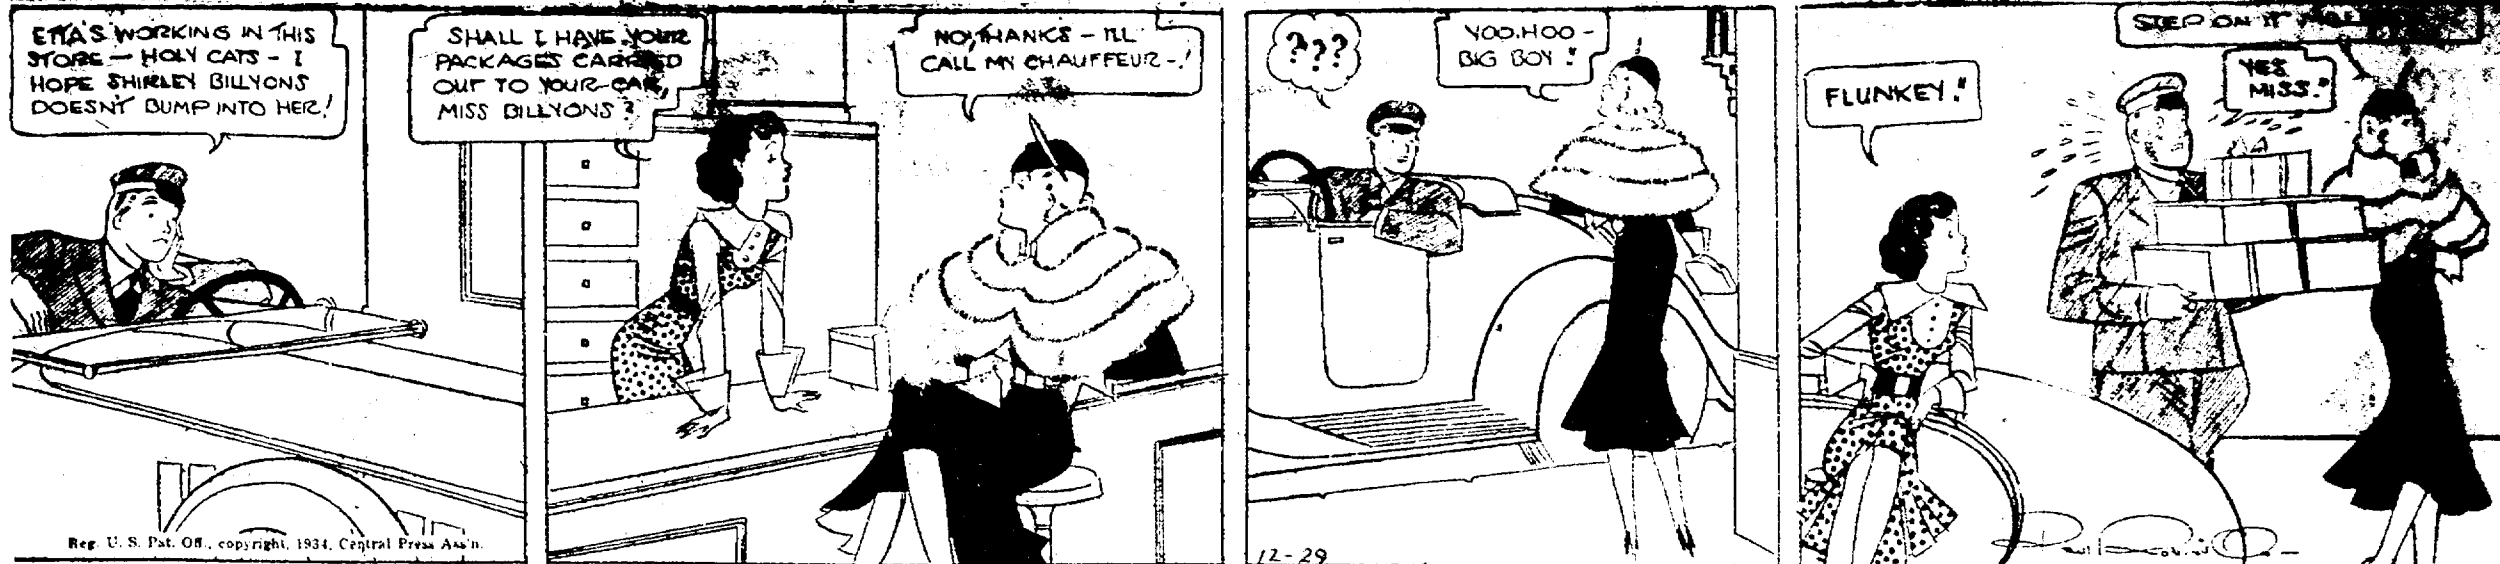

For the most part, the year-end published reviews of trade activities reveal encouraging improvement. Business leaders express optimism over the New Year outlook.

We believe that there is a real and solid foundation for this growing confidence which is manifest everywhere. We expect business to be better in 1935 than it was in 1934 and we hope that you and your friends may benefit in due measure from the expected improvement.
